THE ANNUAL
. . . AURORA

June, 1936

Volume Twenty-five

UNION HIGH SCHOOL • GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

Dedication

To two favorite teachers of Union's students, Mrs. Elizabeth Slaght and Mr. Clayton Bazuin, we are happy to dedicate this 1936 AURORA.

Mrs. Slaght has long been associated with Union High School, and her friendly and cheerful spirit has endeared her to all. Her great interest in boys has shown itself in the organization at Union of boys' foods classes (the first in Grand Rapids). Her social and culinary art expresses itself in lovely teas for the teachers, luncheons for outside guests, and, most important of all, genuinely creative expression by her students in the preparation and serving of foods. To each succeeding class Mrs. Slaght has been the same warm, friendly adviser. By this dedication we wish to acknowledge to her our appreciation of her practical and inspiring services to Union.

Mrs. Elizabeth Slaght

Mr. Clayton Bazuin

Firmly established as one of our most prominent backers of school activities, Mr. Bazuin gives freely of his time for such projects as the school store, the school newspaper, and the Union High Community Council. He is actively interested in our students, who turn naturally and often to "Doc" for personal counsel. As an expression of our gratitude for his unfailing fairness and good-will, his firm stand for scholarship, leadership, service, and character, we also d e d i c a t e this AURORA to him.

Foreword

Within the pages of this AURORA we have attempted to portray the theme, "School Is Life," in vivid, lifelike action pictures. This annual marks a transition in Union's yearbooks. The formal pictures of the past have been supplanted by action pictures which will serve as a reflector of our happy school life here at Union.

Life itself may be divided into various phases: work, fun, sports, health, fellowship, and service. To distinguish exactly between these phases is impossible as they tend to overlap one another. A similar problem has presented itself in the grouping of pictures for this annual which aims to show that "School Is Life" — life in miniature. The arrangement has therefore had to be an arbitrary decision of the editorial staff.

We believe that this miniature life which we have lived in high school will enable us to enter into the larger world as intelligent, able-bodied citizens educated to express our appreciation to our school patrons in balanced living, fellowship, and social service.

Miss Ivy Slayton (1866-1935)

"To live in the hearts we leave behind, Is not to die."
—Campbell

In Memoriam

A pall of sorrow was cast over the Christmas festivity by the death of a loyal friend and esteemed instructor, Miss Ivy Slayton.

Miss Slayton began her career of teaching at the age of sixteen in the city of Whitehall where her father served as superintendent of schools. She continued in this work, teaching successively at Muskegon and Grand Rapids, where she became a teacher of mathematics at Union.

She devoted thirty-four years of her life to the promulgation of our ideals and was one of the founders of the democratic principles which exist among us today. The whole-hearted, kindly manner in which she entered into our projects and the sincere interest which she took in her pupils and her work established her high in our hearts.

In 1933, ill health compelled her to retire, thus bringing to an end the work in which she had been engaged for forty-four years.

In her death we mourn the loss of an invaluable instructor, one of the most sincere and kindly characters in the history of the school.

School Is Life

● It has been said that the spirit of fellowship is "a mystic bond of brotherhood that makes all men one." This spirit has so instilled itself into the hearts of Unionites that our projects are enthusiastic successes because we enter them, not as separate groups, but as one. To develop this spirit to the utmost is essential in the life of the school, for success in life is dependent upon it. Union teachers have put forth every effort to encourage and promote fellowship, entering whole-heartedly into our activities, being one of us. This splendid spirit of democracy was originally inspired and furthered by such teachers as Miss Marion L. Jennings and Elwood F. Demon, both friends of the students for more than thirty years.

No longer do we consider the faculty "superbeings," living in an intellectual super-world, but we consider them our elder, wiser brothers to whom we may go for advice. Likewise our underclassmen work and play with their upperclassmen and are aided by the freely given advice. We as seniors are proud to be not only guides and ideals but friends of our underclassmen.

Further interest is promoted by get-togethers, all-school parties, dances, festivals, assemblies, and banquets. This year students have been less fortunate, as only seven parties, in place of sometimes as many as thirty, have been sponsored. The outstanding social events of this year were the Bal Moderne, Military Ball, Pleasure Cruise, Varsity Frolic, and the Junior-Senior Prom. Through these activities greater fellowship has been developed.

We must remember that school is life, and the better part of life is fellowship.

Mr. Charles A. Everest, Union's well-liked principal, is very liberal in his ideas with students, and is kind and considerate toward his teachers. If there is a question any student would like to have cleared up, all he has to do is to see Principal Everest. He will first listen, then answer the question in such a way that the caller never hesitates to consult him again.

He stands for right and justice. He is a man who is always on the job and always on time, usually a little early. His main characteristic is that whatever he does he goes into whole-heartedly and stays with it until it is satisfactorily finished.

Outside of school he has acted as president of the Teachers' Club, for which he has done excellent work; member of the governing board of the Humane Society; and ex-officio member of the Michigan Education Association. Gardening and golf are his favorite hobbies. He grows beautiful flowers which you see often on the office desk.

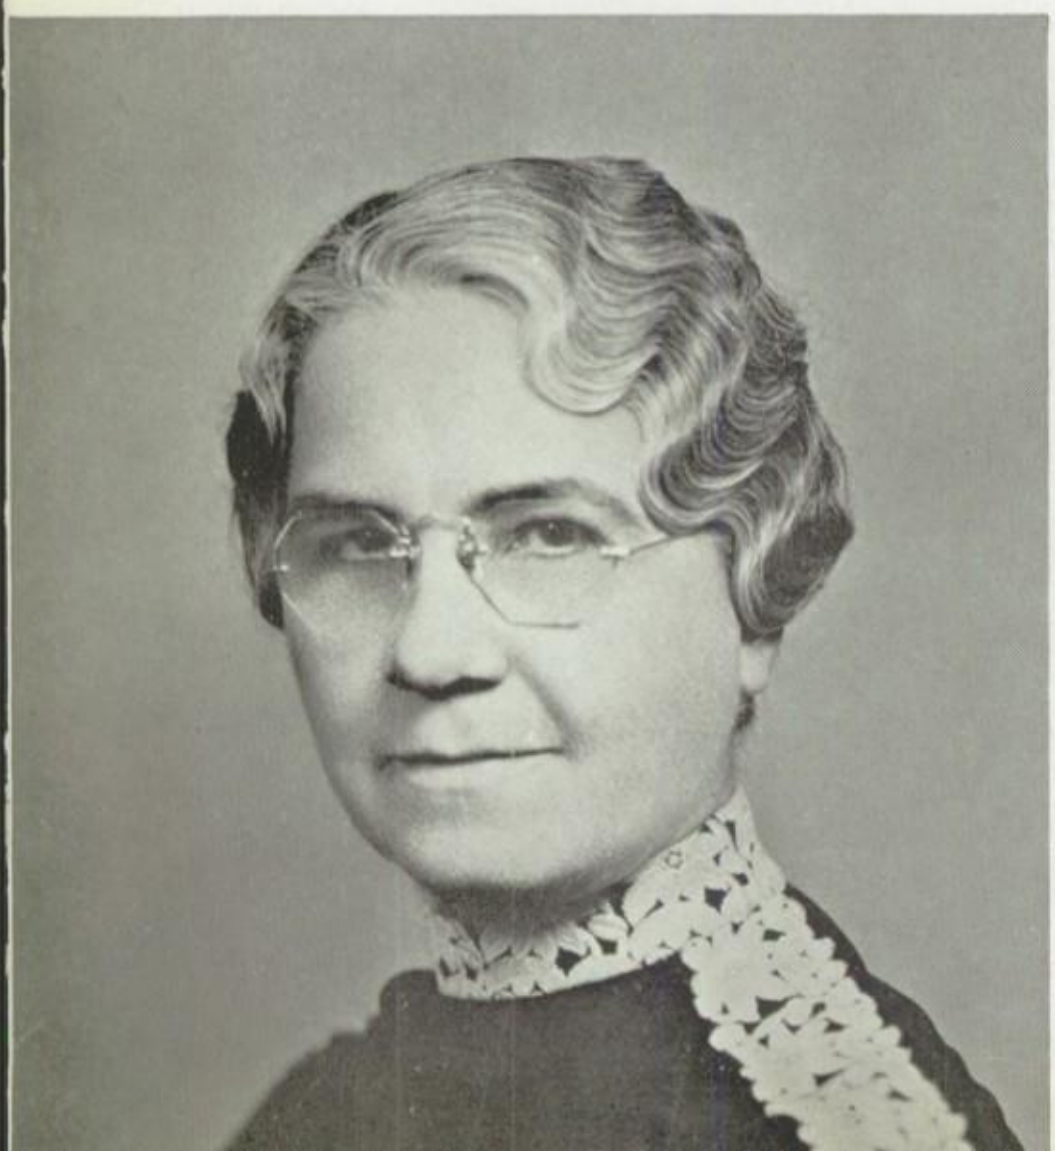
Administration

Miss Blanche Mann
Assistant Principal



Miss Blanche Mann will always be remembered by the graduates of Union High School for the helpful advice she gives them. This year particularly she has spent much of her valuable time placing boys and girls at work for the N. Y. A.

In addition, she has acted as adviser for the Student Council, which meets on Monday the eighth hour; the Service Squad, which promotes self government; and the Counsellors, a group that straightens out the questions of new students. All these groups are formed to build character and to teach self discipline.

Miss Mann is a firm believer in truth and can stand for most anything but a lie. She is always willing to help students and tries to keep them from losing interest in school life.

In her leisure time she farms and sews. She likes gardening but only when it's connected with farming.

Motto: Our aim to succeed; our hope to win.

Scholars in the Making

Seniors

1936 Senior Officers

John Scholl, president; Irmaruth Krapp, secretary; Mr. Fred Voss, adviser; Miss Grace Thomasma, adviser; Elizabeth Allen, vice-president; Joan Rodenhouse, girl treasurer; Allan Stellingworth, boy treasurer.

The business undertakings of the senior class are many and difficult. The yearly success of these projects is due largely to the perseverance, co-operation, and sound advice of the senior advisers, Miss Grace Thomasma and Mr. Fred Voss.

Perhaps the most difficult of these tasks, that of composing a class song, is undertaken by the class song committee, a group of students talented in music.

The ideas for the traditional class memorial to the alma mater are suggested by the memorial committee. The senior class makes a selection by popular vote, but the remaining duty of erecting and installing the memorial is left to the committee. The financing of this memorial is done by means of a senior play, or even two plays, chosen by the play committee.

Through the cooperation of committees and the senior class, the class photographer, cards and announcements, and motto are chosen. The preliminary work is done by able groups of students and the final choices are determined by the vote of the class.

Fellowship is encouraged in many extra-curricular activities and occasional senior get-togethers. The chaperons are invited to these get-togethers by the invitations committee, while checking, publicity, entertainment, decorations and orchestra are all taken care of by their respective committee members.

The publication of the AURORA, school yearbook, is undertaken by a special staff chosen from the students with the highest scholarship records.

With eyes full of tears we bid good-bye to Alma Mater and face the "cold, cruel world" with our weapons, the diplomas, and our chins up!

Class Song

We'll never fail you, Union High,
But e'er we'll be true blue:
And though your halls are left behind,
Our hearts will cling to you.

In every deed we'll work for you,
Your name we'll carry far,
In years to come, where'er we go,
You'll be our guiding star.

Oh, how we'll miss our happy days,
The halls and stairs and classrooms dear:
In mem'ry every hour we'll keep
And treasure every moment here.

Chorus:

Behind us far, we leave your halls
But thoughts of you will guide each deed.
For you we hope to win always,
We aim in each task to succeed.

Music by Jack Sonneveldt
Words by Jacqueline Wenger and Lura Powell

Class Will

We, the exalted Senior Class of the institution known as Union High School, located in the city of Grand Rapids, County of Kent, in the State of Michigan, in the United States of America, on the Continent of North America, in the Northern Hemisphere, on the Planet Earth, of the Solar System, in the Third Dimensional Universe 475693B, in the Year of Our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-six, being of sound mind and body, do bequeath to our heirs the following articles and requisites:

Whereas: To the candidates for senior president, we leave the platform of co-educational session rooms which is sure to elect any candidate.

Whereas: To the city in general and the school in particular, we leave the material for one championship football team.

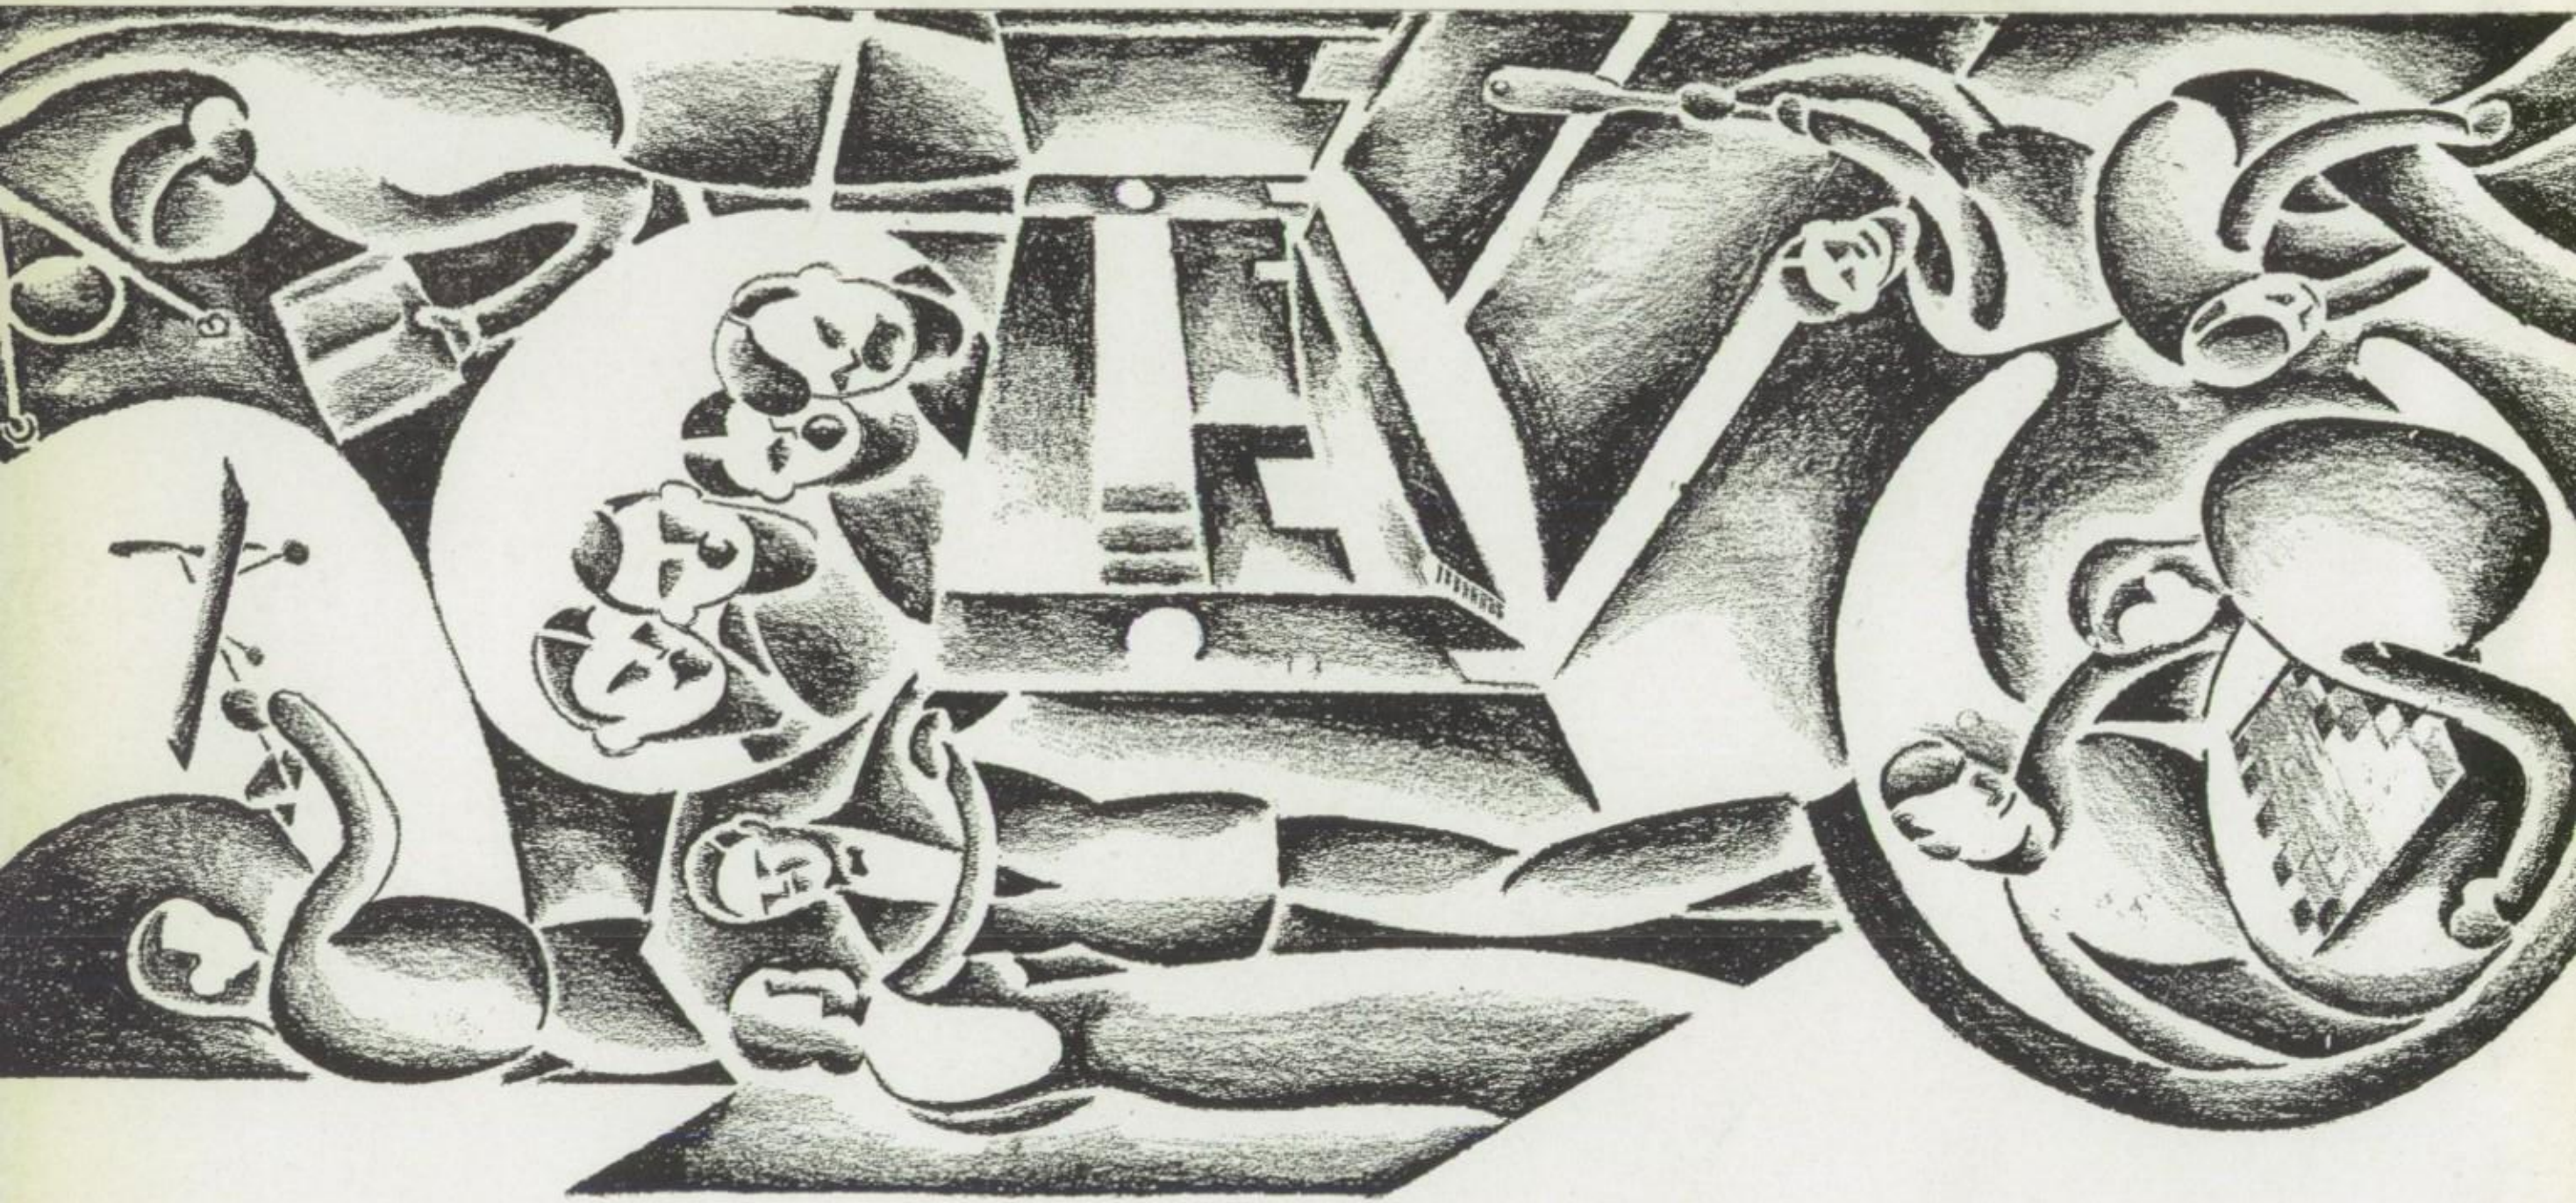
Whereas: To the juniors, the privilege of looking at their pictures and using the language they so desire.

Whereas: To Union in the future, the goal of a city basketball crown won by our cagers this year.

Whereas: To seniors-to-be, the relief they experience when they learn they do not have to take final exams.

Whereas: To the new Reflector staff, solace in the knowledge that the preceding staffs weren't so clever either.

Inmate No. 71915
(Term expires June 5)



School Is Life

● Realizing the necessity of establishing a happy medium between the cultivation of work and play, this school through its many classes and organizations offers opportunities to the students to achieve a healthful balance.

A more extensive field of learning, gleaned from actual experience and study, supplements the once important drill of the three R's. To be able to work and enjoy our work, we must select that type of vocation for which we, as individuals, are best suited. Through the many courses offered here we are able to acquaint ourselves with the fundamentals of the work we have selected as a vocation. Courses are offered in college preparation, science, business, shop, and home economics in addition to those stimulating appreciation of the fine arts, music, literature and art.

Our personalities are expressed and often found through our leisure - time interests; therefore it is essential that time and care be given to the cultivation of beneficial hobbies and cultural entertainment. This aim is carried out through class as well as through extra-curricular activities.

Each organization promotes a definite kind of leisure-time occupation, such as stamp collecting or the study of French; yet each strives to create an atmosphere of harmony among the students. Their doings are supervised by competent instructors who are interested in the students and give their time freely for the work of the club.

The student who takes advantage of these many opportunities is well equipped to leave the class room and seek higher knowledge from life in the world outside.

Commercial

"Cut Your Haggling. Will Ye Give?"

Van Driel, Van't Hoff, Ampulski, Bieschke, Oumedian, Drabinski, Wentzloof, Vesota, Oumedian, Rivard, Schuer, Miss Potter, DeWitt, Wagner, Baird, Zindel, Matthews, Szczepaniak, Czakowski.

Efficiency and rapidity are the two important requisites for those seeking positions in the commercial world. No longer are slow or inaccurate clerks, stenographers, or accountants tolerated. This school offers opportunities whereby students may acquire speed and accuracy through intense study. The frequent speed tests given in shorthand and typing enable students to compare their individual standards with class and national standards.

In retail selling classes, many of the clerks and shopkeepers of tomorrow are prepared through demonstrations, actual shopping, clerking, and study, to enter into the field of retailing intelligently.

Pride and ambition may transform commercial training into a useful and practical pastime. To be able to buy or sell intelligently, keep accurate, neat accounts, take speedy notes, and type efficiently are important practical personal assets.

Because commercial work is important vocationally and practically in life, it is a necessary department in our curriculum.

A picture of a typical English battleship is the temporary center of interest in the English literature class, portrayed above. It is in classes such as these that Unionites learn to appreciate the beauty of the English language and its literary masters.

Members of the Latin Club, having donned typical Roman costumes amidst not so typical Roman surroundings, are seen enacting a Roman wedding.

One of those fierce duels, for which the French were once noted, is being dramatized for the benefit of French students.

The Spanish club is probably the most active language club. Its main activity is the annual La Fiesta L'Espanola, a dance given near Christmas to show the Spanish way of celebrating this holiday.

Miss Florence Parsell is illustrating the costumes worn in a German production of "The Oberammergau" to members of the German club.

Strange as it may sound, the fact that ac=627A=23° 30' seems to interest quite a large group of students at Union. Or perhaps they take the subject only because it's required for those who plan to be engineers or mathematic teachers!

Aspiring nurses, doctors, chemists, and engineers come into contact with general laboratory work in the chemistry classes offered at Union. The course introduces the students to regular routine work which will be of value later on.

How to balance a budget, and how to earn a living are two important problems dealt within the economics course. Students planning to take up some form of business will find a course in economics a welcome aid.

Perseverance will enable these "air-minded" students to develop skill in their hobby-work. In recognition of their fine work, they were presented with a cup at the last annual contest.

The mixed chorus, the boys' glee club, and the girls' glee club, aided by a few representatives from the instrumental department, combine to make the annual January concert a decided success. A well-received feature this year was a trio of girls who sang several compositions written by Miss Best, instructor.

The girls of our vocal department appear in attractive white uniforms trimmed with red buttons for concerts. These groups have performed occasionally at assemblies, and the mixed chorus received many favorable comments when it took part, along with other choruses from schools of the city, in the carol service at Fountain Street Church last Christmas.

A solo class for promising vocalists is an interesting musical development recently originated by Miss Florence Best, vocal teacher. Students are given the opportunity to sing in assemblies.

Our instrumental department also adds pep to the work-and-fun life at Union. The band is indispensable at football games, and it also does its spirited bit at assemblies, parades, and holiday occasions. Through the efforts of the Union High Community Council, we hope soon to see our band arrayed in new uniforms. Our orchestra furnished music in the Pantlind Hotel ballroom for the Midwest Physical Education Association dinner, and its annual spring concert is a genuine event of the second semester.

Athough the French Club often expresses its gaiety in songs of the French tongue, it is not primarily a musical organization. It sponsors assemblies and presents dramatizations to bring the people and customs of France a little closer to us.

"Alouette"

Girls in the ranks of the army! True, but they are not out for military training. They are out to inspire a chivalrous attitude among the R.O.T.C. boys. The girls benefit by the social opportunities open to them.

The course in personal regimen has aided many girls in discovering their own personalities. Grooming, health, leisure interests, and other personal subjects are discussed.

Many students have learned to face and address an audience with ease, to develop poise, and to cultivate finer speaking habits in the public speaking classes.

Bible narrative, a one-year course, awakens in the students an appreciation of the Bible as a true literature.

Through the assistance of Miss Dorothy Jane Farr and Miss Harriet Schroder, sight conservation students are able to prepare their lessons readily.

Members of the Chess Club, a recent organization at Union, are taught the fundamentals of the game. Each year they enter the new Inter-high Chess Tournament.

The purpose of the art classes is to develop appreciation of art, love of beauty, and preparation for art careers.

Although the library serves extensively as a place of reference, it is used to an even greater extent for leisure-reading purposes.

This year our work in clothing has been enlarged to include personal problems, as well as the fundamentals of sewing.

The cheer leaders are beneficial to the school in arousing school spirit. They themselves gain in poise and ease when they are before the public eye.

Stand Up and Cheer!

The students of today interest themselves not only in the local affairs but also in international activities. The debating team discusses the current problems which confront the nations. This year's team won the contest at Hope College and placed second in the city tournament. The government and civics classes study international relationships too.

Among the extra-curricular activities that carry us around the world are the Audubon Club and the newly formed Stamp Club. The Audubon Club has been organized a long time. The original purpose was to enable many of the girls who were not participating in any of the clubs to take part in extra activities. As the club progressed they took up the study of birds and their migrations.

The collections made by the Stamp Club, which was started this year, enabled the boys to become acquainted with the famous people, places, and holidays of the many nations.

Fellowship

All Pals Together

The Oumedian twins, Frederickson, Drabinski, Vanderlaan, Klien, Nivala, Blashkiew, Neuman, Miller, Ellingson, May.

Fellowship among students is developed as they share hobbies of the same nature.

The Cosmopolitan Club, consisting entirely of boys, goes in for many jolly-good-fellow meetings. Swimming in the Y.M.C.A. pool once a week is its special hobby.

The Sportsman's Club cultivates fellowship among boys who are interested in outdoor sports. Their chief interests are fishing and hunting. In the picture they are making tackle under the skilful direction of Mr. Clayton Bazuin, science teacher.

The girls of the Home Economics Club gather for a quite different cause. The members of this organization are particularly interested in learning the domestic and social graces that make for lovely home-making.

The girls' athletic club, the G.U.C., has for its members girls having athletic numerals or letters. This group seeks to further higher standards of health and to promote sport activities.

What could be more life-like and commonplace than the carpenter learning the use of that ever-appearing carpenter's rule; the machinist obtaining the art of wielding his wrench; the artist studiously flipping his pallet-knife; the mechanic endeavoring to assemble a smooth-running motor; the electrician wonderingly probing with skillful yet timid fingers; the chef experimentally dabbing with his spoon; the draftsman giving his compass a cautious whirl; and the metal worker whaling the life out of a red-hot chunk of iron with a heavy sledge?

It is easy to see that these courses are a great factor in the educational training of high school youths. They tend to promote a feeling of pride for one's work. The mind is trained along with the hands. They open new fields in which young people can enter after they are out of school. Who knows but that the mechanical drawing class may be the stepping stone for some great designer or architect; that auto or electric may produce a successful engineer, or that a famous illustrator may be developed under Miss Parsell's direction?

But then, too, these types of courses are the breeding place for hobbies. It has been said that the American, whether he is a banker, a business man, or a day laborer, has not yet learned how to play. What could be a better place to spend one's leisure time than at a workbench tinkering with a motor or building some small piece of furniture for your home? What could be of greater use on a hunting or fishing trip than a good cook? Union is teaching its young how to play!

As to the practical uses of the various courses, they are unlimited. Think of the convenience of having an electrician in your home or a mechanic to repair your car any time some little thing goes wrong.

In tribute to a well-loved former English teacher whose deep understanding and appreciation of student talent inspires this honor, the Christine M. Keck awards are presented annually to students who evidence creative ability in any field whether it be artistic, scientific, or manual.

Recognizing their outstanding leadership, scholarship, character, and sincerity, seventeen new members, in addition to the sixteen former members, are enrolled in the Union High School Chapter of the National Honor Society, an organization representing the highest ideals of young America.

Rev. Chas. W. Helsley of the East Congregational Church spoke at the annual honor assembly in March on the value and importance of this society to posterity. Following the address, a tea was given by the faculty for the new members and their parents.

"To the victor belongs the spoils," and conquerors are always recompensed for their victories. These trophies provide visible proof of leadership in athletics and oratory — and lots of pleasure for gloating eyes!

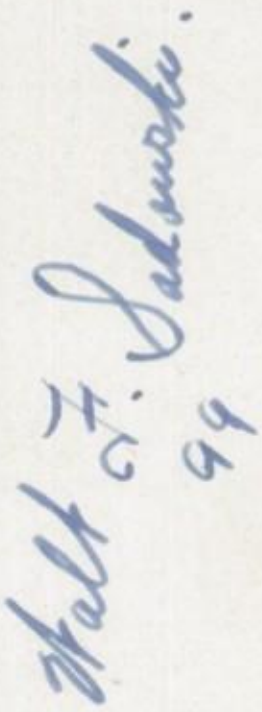
School Is Life

● The activities of the school which appear under the title of Service have as their goal the training of students to be good citizens. Union performs many of the functions necessary to a progressive community, but these functions are naturally on a much smaller scale than they are in the outside world. Through their participation in these functions, students become conscious of their future civic and social responsibilities. A student not only stimulates the "life of the school" with his ideas and aspirations but the school appears in a newer light when he too is a part of it.

Each year natural-born leaders are discovered hidden in the folds of the various clubs. Small executive groups, which determine and supervise the policies of the numerous organizations, are composed of these leaders. Awards presented to the seniors who have served their school the most express Union's appreciation for their contribution to the spirit and life at Union.

Many students acquire actual business experience at Union. When they are serving, they learn the secret of mingling with various types of people, initiative, and the willingness to cooperate with others — all valuable attributes for successful vocational and social life.

The seniors of 1936 hope that they have contributed somewhat to the structure of "School Life" at Union and pledge themselves to do far more in the world that they are now entering.



Awards

Two Future Leading Citizens
Principal Everest, Margaret Nagy, Donald Beasecker.

Awards are presented each year to the senior boy and girl who are outstanding in leadership and scholarship. These students each receive the Dillingham Memorial Cup named in honor of Mr. Gurney O. Dillingham, former faculty member distinguished for a lifetime of service to the school.

Gold Keys are presented each year to a limited number of seniors who have proved themselves leaders in extra - curricular activities and at the same time have maintained a satisfactory scholarship record.

The senior boy who is distinguished for his fine character is presented with a cup by the Hi-Y Club.

The R.O.T.C. boys pictured here are the city champions in marksmanship. Four of these boys are on the Hearst Trophy Team, which consists of five boys from the entire city.

What the Press and Herald are to Grand Rapids, the Reflector is to Union. Through it, the students and faculty are kept informed of the activities of the school and surrounding community.

Each week, the editorial staff with the aid of its adviser, Miss Myrtle Heseltine, endeavors to provide Unionites with fresh, lively copy. The work is then turned over to the printers who do their bit to make a good-looking and accurate paper. Distribution is ably taken care of by a business staff, who place within the subscriber's hand the completed Reflector, a paper truly "of the students, by the students, and for the students."

The accompanying pictures show the Reflector in its three stages: the actual writing, printing, and distribution.

The Union High Community Council is composed of business men and citizens of the west side, Union faculty, and students. This council is a new organization. Its first project was the Patriotic Banquet, the purpose of which was to help re-dress the band. . Its second undertaking was the "Round Up."

The Ways and Means Committee is made up only of faculty and students. This committee, the second largest in the school, is interested in financing the athletic equipment installed on the Ninth Street Field. Five movies were presented every two weeks during the spring term to help this group further its plans. The picture on this page depicts the popularity of those movies, and the cooperation given to the committee by the students.

Chalk displays, announcements, and ticket sales are among the many advertising details the Athletic Council takes care of for all athletic events during the year.

To build character through physical, mental, and moral training and to develop leadership are the aims of many school organizations. Among these is the Student Council whose members develop, through actual training, executive ability and leadership. This club is the lawmaking body of the school and is composed of students who are representatives of their session rooms.

It is the aim of both the Girl Reserves and the Hi-Y Clubs to serve others and to become better neighbors through their social contacts. The Girl Reserves Club is under the guidance of the YWCA, and the Hi-Y Club of the YMCA. Members of these clubs endeavor to improve themselves mentally and morally by having programs which include helpful talks given by people who understand and point out the ideals and aspirations of youth. The highlight of the year was the Girl Reserves — Hi-Y roller-skating party held early in March.

The above-mentioned clubs promote service to fellow classmates while the R.O.T.C. stands for service to one's country.

The Union High Safety club was organized eight years ago, by Miss Elizabeth Perrin, the adviser. The club has entered the Five-Year National Safety drive and is an active group in the work of the police headquarters of Grand Rapids. Its enthusiastic members are interested in humane treatment and safety.

The Red Cross club is a world-wide organization desiring to promote peace and the welfare of all. Through correspondence with other Red Cross members of foreign countries, the club has obtained information in regard to the economic and social conditions of those countries. Every year a convention is held in Chicago, to which this spring, for the first time, the club was able to send a delegate.

The Humane Society was organized in November, 1935, by Miss Lavina Laible. This group of junior high students has provided the first grade children with oranges at various times as well as practiced and promoted kindness to animals.

All of them have organized groups, give parties, and enter vigorously into the major projects of the Community Council, Student Council, and Athletic Association.

"Cooperation" can well be called the theme of this page. The service squad, a student organization depicted in the picture at the upper left, cooperates by keeping students from leaving the building without permits, maintaining order in the halls and acting as an information bureau.

That much cooperation is necessary for the presentation of a senior play is evidenced by these scenes from our plays, two showing the casts and one showing backstage work. Students who do not often get the publicity that the actors do but who are necessary for the successful presentation of the play are those who handle the business work.

From these pictures an observer might think that we students certainly enjoy eating, but isn't appetite natural for growing children? Senior students receive training in handling the cash register and balancing books too.

The school store provides everything students might need from erasers to candy and neckties. It is an exchange shop for books and also words of greeting. The by-stander sees the very busy junior high students and the very business-like seniors meet here for the same purpose.

The sunlite dances help supply merriment and funds for clubs and societies of the school. It is a place where acquaintances are made and friendships ripen.

As we depart from home after a day of hard study, you may often see us with books in one hand and an after-school lunch in the other. If you do see us, you may know some organization has chosen this means of getting the students to assist them in raising funds.

School Is Life

● Advancing hand in hand with educational achievements is the interesting sports program for both boys and girls, with the emphasis placed not alone on the winning of the various activities but also on the development of the mental and physical health of the participants. The physical education department has procured professional people to talk about the common diseases that confront children of high school age and what cares should be exercised to prevent these enemies of youth.

Physical education includes a large number of activities, arranged in an order that is both timely and interesting to the ever-changing moods of the youth of today. Requirements for graduation demand eight semesters of physical education, unless the student is excused on recommendation of a doctor. Both the girls' and boys' gym classes devote their time to the types of sports that foster the development of cooperation, coordination, clear thinking, and physical culture, abilities necessary to students in adjusting themselves to their future social obligations.

To further the feeling that teamwork and victory bring is the utlimate aim of intramural sports. Under this program various seasonal sports are played both during class time and after school. Athletic certificates are awarded to members of victorious teams or to contestants.

Football, basketball, track, tennis, and golf teams that compete against other high schools create opportunities for senior high boys to develop their special talents. Members of the varsity in each of these sports receive a high school honor letter at the end of each season.

With the 1935 co-captains, Ken Honholt and Bill Gutaskus, as the only regulars returning from the 1934 squad, Coach Maynard "Doc" Ellingson was compelled to rebuild a new team from an exceptionally good reserve stock. "Doc" again qualified for the position of "miracle coach" when he produced his second city champions team in three years.

The Red Hawk squad, paced by Honholt and Gutaskus, swept through the season as follows:

Union placed Ken Honholt, Bill Gutaskus, and Jack Newman on the All-City team. Jack Newman set a new individual score record when he bagged 48 field goals and seven free throws for 103 points.

Players leaving in June are Ken Honholt, Bill Gutaskus, Wallace Imhoff and Robert Blandford. Players returning for next season are Newman, Morris, Kozlowski, Oleszewski, Amon and Wieck. Amon and Wieck wind up their careers at the end of the first semester.

The Union High Reserves were also champions in their class for the second year in a row.

Football

"Silent" John Hess, coach of the Union Red Hawks, with only six veterans returning, again produced a championship contender. Starting out against Rockford, the Red Hawk eleven romped over their out-of-town foes 35-0. Central knocked Union from the driver's seat with a 14-0 lacing.

The Homecoming game, played against Catholic, was a huge success, Union winning 7-0. The Muskegon Reds battled Union to a 6-6 tie. Union walloped Ottawa 28-6.

South was met at Houseman Field on Thanksgiving Day, and before the largest crowd of the season, nearly 10,000 people, defeated Union 7-0 on a snow-covered gridiron, ending the football season and placing Union in second place.

The Reserve Football team had a mediocre season this year, losing most of their games. However, many of these same boys will try out for the varsity next fall, and with this year's experience should really go places.

When next fall rolls around, "Silent" John Hess may issue his yearly statement, "Our chances aren't so hot this year," but fans may hope that he will go right ahead as usual and contradict himself by producing another streamlined team to replace his last year's model.

Enjoying the facilities of the new Ninth Street stadium, Union's track season for 1936 wasn't coated with so many victories as in previous years but came through the season with a tie, two losses, and a victory. Union tied with Allegan, lost to South and Central, and defeated Davis Tech. Two school records were broken when Amon ran the hundred yards in ten seconds flat and the mile relay team, composed of Amon, Klein, Civinskas, and Den Braber, shattered the old record of 1:35.1 by running it in 1:34.5. In the state regional tournament the relay team took first place.

Intramural

The intramural sports program has earned for itself a place in the athletic limelight by creating a new outlet for student activity. It includes nearly every sport that has student-wide appeal. This program has two major divisions, junior and senior high, so that students participating in the various sports are able to join a group in their own class.

All the following are sports covered under this program: speedball, touch football, fall tennis, shuffle-board, basketball, twenty-one, foul throwing, ping-pong, handball, volleyball, playground ball, track, and horseshoe. These sports are all elective on the part of the student. Some of these sports are becoming very popular with the male members of the faculty, and special leagues have been organized to provide for their recreation.

Sports

A calendar of sporting events has been arranged so that each sport will be played in its right season to create and hold the attention of the players. New sports are added to the intramural program from time to time. Boxing and wrestling are at present under the consideration of the representative council and Principal Charles E. Everest. With their approval these sports will be added to the curriculum of the intramural program.

Mr. Harmon S. Jones, physical education instructor at Union, is the founder and director of the school's present system of intramural sports. Through his effort and work of organizing teams, he has developed among the students the right mental attitude toward sports as a means of recreation.

A handbook, issued every year to the members of this organization, shows the results of each event and the names of the winners.

"All work and no play makes Jill a dull girl," and education doesn't intend to create this type of person; so the girls of Union are taught how to play as well as to work.

A quick mind and the qualifications of a good sport are developed in athletic activities. Basketball and speedball, two of the girls' intramural sports, as well as their other sports bring out these characteristics.

In the basketball picture where the girl is attempting a foul shot, accuracy is developed while the other girls are on their toes every minute either to aid the ball in going through the net or to prevent it doing so. The other basketball picture illustrates the tip-off which usually starts the game or follows a tie-ball. Sometimes, however, a throw-in begins the game.

The speedball pictures represent a foul kick and one of the plays that is typical and very necessary to a good speedball game: the passing of the ball towards the goal for a touchdown.

Just what could put greater action into our school life than gym? It is the work of the physical education department to plan a beneficial program for girls — to help make their lives real. This is accomplished through the gym classes and after-school practice.

Because of the limited time given to gymnastics during the school day, the girls have very little time to develop their skill in athletics; so they are given the opportunity to practice after school. All girls who display an interest in sports and who are efficient in athletics are trained for leadership. These girls learn to referee games, to be good sports, and, most of all, to be good leaders. This training teaches girls the meaning of true executive ability — to direct and be directed — the ability to cooperate.

For poise sake, dance! There is nothing better for developing social grace. Folk dances are especially good in emphasizing rhythmical movements. They also give a knowledge of some country other than our own, both by the costume and the steps characteristic of that land. This particular dance is known as "Polnischer Nationaltanz" or "The Polish Dance." Accompanied by spirited Polish music, the traditional heel-clicking and pantomime scene are outstandingly picturesque. In our gym classes this dance typifies one of the several phases of our annual routine.

The picture below shows a group of girls illustrating skill, control, and perfect team work. These qualities, so useful in physical development, are extremely essential for intellectual progress. Without the skill of thinking clearly, control of self, and continuous cooperation, dire results are apt to occur. Without these qualifications, what is life?
